BRIEF ABSTRACT OF LETTER

Requests approval to the proposal to introduce a rule for the compulsory retirement by rotation of three members of the Committee of management of co-operative Societies at Bt Head quarters etc

NOTES AND ORDERS.

see 33

*The Committee recommended that the bye-laws of Societies should provide for the compulsory retirement by rotation of a certain proportion (between a third and a half) of Committee members every year and their replacement by new members.
The method of selection for retirement being determined by the bye-laws of each Society and exceptions being allowed in the case of S.O.S. where needed funds*

General and Revenue

2) The Registrar suggests that "a rule may be framed for the present for the compulsory retirement by rotation of two of the members of the Committee every year of Societies at District Headquarters and their replacement by new members the election of retirement being made from the members of the districts" exception being however allowed to be made by the Registrar even in the case of Societies at District Headquarters where needful facilities to enforce the rule do not obtain

3) While the Committee recommended the incorporation of this principle as a bylaw in the Society, the Registrar suggests the framing of a rule under the Regulation. While the Committee intends the application of this principle to all Societies - irrespective of the locality the Registrar confines its scope to Societies at Dh. Headquarters and while the Committee proposes that the method of election for retirement will be determined by the bylaws of each Society the Registrar suggests the election <sup>for retirement</sup> being made from the recommendation of the Directors. And requests that he may be empowered to make exceptions in cases of Societies even at Dh. Headquarters where useful facilities to ensure this may not be available. L. H. K. over

6) The recommendation of the Committee is on page 33 of the Report. It is a useful recommendation and may perhaps be accepted. The rule of Compulsory ~~rotation~~ retirement by rotation may in the first instance be applied to Societies at- St Ad. Or only as suggested by the Report. In other places it may not be easy to find suitable men for replacement every year. The Report may perhaps be asked to send up draft rules for consideration.

for the conduct of election to the Committee of management of Cooperative Societies are under consideration separately. As the strength of the Committee of management is to be fixed according to the by-laws of the Committee it seems desirable to substitute 'a third of the members' for 'three' for a society may consist of twelve members. and the retirement of three members would make the proportion to a fourth and where a society has not only six members on its Committee the members to retire would mean half of the strength. To avoid this discrepancy

The proportion of  $\frac{1}{3}$  may perhaps be fixed

Taking into consideration the nature of the of the rules for the conduct of elections the following rule is suggested for adoption

- 2) [ "The management of every society situated than five members who shall be elected every year in accordance with such rules as ~~have~~

The Registrar may, in case of any society in which he considers that facilities for the enforcement of such restriction do not exist above may be adopted & final

32) The phrase 'a third of the persons' may perhaps be qualified by an addition "or to nearest figure thereto", this is suggested as there may be some confusion in the case of communities whose numerical strength is not in multiples of three, eg.
11, 14 etc.

would mean difference in the proportion

(69) Returned with compliments. Under the Rule originally proposed three of the oldest members of the committee are to be disqualified from standing for re-election. The under-lying object is that every year there should be some new elements in the committee and that it should not be monopolised by the same set of people throughout as has been the case in very many societies. To gain this object it may not be necessary that places for new candidates should be provided for by disqualifying the oldest members for reelection. On the other hand it may be an advantage to the society to retain the services of the oldest members provided they continue to enjoy the confidence of the general body. It will be generally found that such members have been the pioneers of the institution who will have worked it up to its present position, are well experienced in its affairs and can be expected to continue to work in the interest of the institution. Further it may often-times be not easy to determine who are the necessary number of oldest members to be eliminated as a larger number than that might be equally old in the committee. These points were pressed at the Provincial Co-operative Conference and were accepted by me as reasonable and deserving of consideration. The rule now proposed <sup>for</sup> securing the introduction of new elements to the committee by eliminating the least popular among the previous set would be less open to objection and there would <sup>not be any</sup> express denial <sup>of</sup> a cherished right to any member.

168/1712

NOTE—Contn. Sheet.

41) Next with regard to the minimum number of new elements to be provided in the committee, as explained in the Secretariat Note, it is better to fix it at one-third the strength of the committee or the nearest approach thereto than fixing it at an absolute number of three irrespective of the actual strength of the committee which may vary between 5 and 13.

42) Lastly the constitutions of the three Central Institutions are governed or are proposed to be governed by specific Government Orders applicable to each of them separately and these three institutions have to be exempted from the operation of this general rule.

43) In view of the facts stated above, I propose the following Rule for the consideration of Government:--

1. The management of every society situated at District Head-quarters except the Apex Bank, the Central Land Mortgage Bank and the Propagandist Institute shall vest in a committee consisting of not more than fifteen and not less than five members who shall be elected every year in accordance with such rules as may have been framed ~~as may have been framed~~ for the conduct of elections to the committee of management, subject to the condition that if out of the members so elected at least one-third of the number or the nearest figure thereto are not persons who were not on the committee of management in the preceding year, as many of the old members of the committee who get the least number of votes shall be replaced, by an equal number of new candidates in the order of the number of votes obtained by them, to make up a third of the strength of the committee or the nearest number thereof to consist of new candidates.

44) The rule proposed by the Regr. seems to have too involved a construction. It may probably be recast in simpler language. The Regr's recommendation, in effect, is that there should be no disqualification for re-election on account of a Committee member being to drop out of Committee, but that the less popular of them should go out. The Co-operation Enquiry Comm<sup>ee</sup> recommends to Compulsory retirement of its older members in order to introduce fresh blood, and to rid the Societies of Chitra etc. If the elimination of older members is made a matter of choice, it is to be feared that the desired object can never be gained; ~~even if the~~

The rule modified as per orders in Para 46 above will be as follows:-

Rule 6.B. The management of every society situated at District Head quarters shall vest in a Committee consisting of not less than five and not more than fifteen electors in accordance with the bylaws of the society. Such bylaws shall make provision to ensure that not less than one third of the total number of members of the Committee shall be persons who have not served at any time during the previous years on the Committee of management.

The Registrar may, in <sup>the</sup> case of any society in which he considers that facilities for the enforcement of such restriction do not exist permit all or any of the retiring directors to stand for re-election.

Nothing in this rule shall apply to the Ager Bank

the Central Land Mortgage Bank and the Mysore Cooperative Institute and to any other cooperative institution which may be exempted by Govt from the operation of this rule.]

48) It is submitted that the rule as modified above though it enable the introduction of new elements in the managing committee, ~~it~~ does not tend to remove the evil of the perpetuation of the old elements. Though new members may be new members it is not improbable the remaining two thirds who may get into the Committee continuously without break may form an effective majority to carry out their wishes even against the protests of the minority. In this view it seems desirable to put some brake in the perpetuation of the old members.

49) It is also submitted that the election to the Committee may be held every year or otherwise the rule may not be able to bring in the desired change because some societies have adopted, and others likely to adopt the system of retirement of directors partially by rotation and filling up of the vacancy just as is done in Joint Stock Companies.

50) The provision for exemption by Govt of any society from the operation of the rule will no doubt enable Govt to exempt societies like Central Weavers' Society and Anala marketing Society

51) The rule as revised now, may perhaps stand.

52) There is no need for any apprehension as suggested at para 48, as, during the next elections, the other kind will become the 'dormant set' and will be replaced, the remaining kind being worked out at the next following election.

53) Para 2 of the rule is also necessary as it has to do with societies in regard to which the Secy. may exercise his discretion; para 3 deals specifically with some societies excluded by Govt. from the operation of the rule.

4/6 Sir,

63)
I beg leave to bring to your kind notice that in Notification No.D 8211-C.S.11-36-255 dated 19-25th April 1938 publishing a new rule in regard to the levy of audit fees, in place of the existing rule 22 of the rules under the Mysore Co-operative Societies Act VII of 1918, it is stated that the rule referred to is promulgated in exercise of the powers vested in Government by Section 44 (2) (b) of the said Act.
Clause (b) of Sub- Section (2) of Section 44 of the Act refers to the formalities to be observed in the registration of a society but not to the levy of fees for the audit of the accounts of Co-operative Societies.
These latter are referred to only in Clause (h) of the said Sub-Section. Clause (b) quoted in the Notification appears to be a misprint for Clause (h) and it seems to be desirable to make the point clear by issuing a correction slip to this effect as early as possible.

64)
Please verify & re-examine the memorandum for the first is a mistake & has been corrected

by issuing an

The second has been corrected.

2. I also request your permission to ~~insert~~ <sup>state</sup> CR that in Rule 6 B of the Mysore Co-operative Societies Rules issued under Notifications No. 8383/C.S.11-36-253 dated 29th April 1938 and No.D 6990-C.S. ~~11~~ 11-36-253 dated 30th March 1938 regarding the Committees of Societies, the word "members" appears to have been omitted between the words "fifteen" and "elected" in line 4 of paragraph 1 of the said Rule 6 B. It is perhaps necessary to issue a correction slip in this respect also.

Sir,

I have the honour to invite kind reference to page 33 of the Report of the Committee on Co-operation in Mysore, regarding the period for which a Committee should be elected and to state that as suggested by the Committee, a Rule may be framed for the present for the compulsory retirement by rotation of three of the members of the Committee every year of societies at District Head Quarters and their replacement by new members, the selection for retirement being made from the senior-most of the Directors. Government might however empower the Registrar to make an exception in the case of societies even at District Head Quarters where needful facilities to enforce this rule do not obtain. If this meets with the approval of Government, a separate reference, suggesting the rule to be framed will be submitted to Government.

Sir,

With reference to Draft Rules 8 (3) under the Mysore Co-operative Societies Regulation of 1918, the text of which rule is published in the Mysore Gazette (Part IV, page 166) of August 5, 1937, I beg to request the favour of your kindly elucidating the following points :--

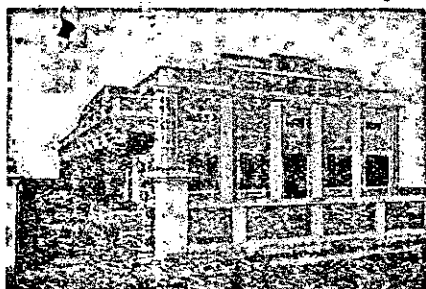

1. Does the term "District Head Quarters" include the Cities of Bangalore and Mysore?
2. What does the word "previously" in line 7 mean? Does it mean the 'Committee' immediately preceding the one for which elections are held?

I presume that it is so; otherwise, the lists of Committee members from the start of the Society will have to be hunted up and of all those who were members, three who have held the position for the longest periods will have to be eliminated. i.e., they should be told before-hand that they are ineligible. In fact, they will be ineligible for all time.

From the next para of the rule, it is clear that such members should not stand for election.

3. What does the term "longest periods" occurring in line 8 mean?

Does it mean "consecutive" periods? or, the total period without the consideration of the 'breaks' between?

If the former interpretation is given, how should the case of a member who resigns membership of the immediately previous Committee, say, three months before the next election takes place, be considered?

If the latter interpretation is given, the lists will have to be hunted up from the start of the Society.

I beg to request the favour of an early reply.

S i r,

With reference to the Government Notification calling for objections to the proposed rule under the Co-operative Regulation for eliminating three of the oldest directors at each election to the Committee of Management of a -- Society, having been myself a Director for over eight years in four of the important Co-operative Societies in Mysore and also a Director of the Co-operative Federal Union, Mysore, I welcome the rule with the following observations.

a) The rule ought to be made clear by necessary verbal alterations so that 3 or even 5 of the directors who have been continuously on the Committee for the longest period may be required to retire.

b) Though this subject was brought up before the General Body as a necessary bye-law amendment number of times in one important local co-operative institution here the same could not be passed, as it used to come off late and that at adjourned meetings which could not secure the required two thirds majority owing to artificial circumstances and thinness of the gatherings.

c) Co-operation being essentially a democratic move, continuance of the same individual or individuals on the Directorate and of the oldest directors, makes progressive changes, or infusion of fresh ideas impossible, as the oldest become obsessed with the notion of their own importance, and of the supposed infallibility of their own ideas - very often unprogressive and opposed to democratic ideas - and freshers on the Committee are not audible enough and very often fail to secure the required support to their own views owing to the artificial majority secured by the oldest.

... present practice tends to ensure the rule of one man or one school of thought in the Committee and create in the general public a false sense of hero-worship and if the oldest, on account of hero worship and their own sense of importance do not voluntarily retire there is bound to be the inevitable strife between the old and the new schools of thought in a Committee and the undesirable formation of factions and parties.

The fallacious argument suggested and advanced that if the oldest who have rendered meritorious services are thus driven out, the Institution would suffer and there would be no incentive for capable men to put forth their best if they are compelled to retire soon, and that this retirement would be an unmerited slur on the selfless and experienced workers, loses all its importance

The Secretary to the Government of H. H. the B a n g a l o r e.

Sir,

With reference to your notification No.D 1176 C.S. 11-36-146 dated 3/4th August 1937, calling for suggestions on the draft rules regarding the appointment of members of Committees of Management of Co-operative Societies at District Headquarters, we write to inform you that the Board of Management of our Bank considered the same at their meeting held on the 19th instant.

The Board are in entire agreement with the principle that a certain proportion of new element should enter the Board at every fresh election, and in fact this principle has been in force here for a fairly long time. As regards the procedure as to how best to achieve this object, the question has been examined by this Bank on several occasions and as a result of actual experience the following Bye-law has been finally adopted here and is now in force:-

"Bye-law No.87: The management of the Bank shall vest in a Board consisting of twelve Directors, elected by voting by ballot as per rules framed by the Board for the conduct of Elections, at the General Meeting held on the Ganesha day from among the members whose names have been on the Registers at least for six months and who have previously intimated to the Directors their willingness to stand for Election at least a week before the Ganesha Day or who have been duly proposed and seconded at the meeting and who at the time of election are not in default for three months, provided that at least four of these elected are persons who have not served on the Directorate the preceding year. Persons who have served longest continuously on the Directorate will vacate in favour of newly elected persons, and as between two or more persons who might have served continuously for an equal length of time, one who secures a higher number of votes will be preferred for continuance."

The above Bye-law, while ensuring that at least one-third of the Directorate will consist of new members, also provides a safeguard against the contingency of the Board suddenly losing the services of an undue proportion of experienced and eligible persons whose continuance would be necessary in the best interests of the institution and continuity of policy. The Bye-law has been found to work satisfactorily and we beg to recommend its provisions for the consideration of Government.

Resolution No. IV (2) passed at the Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bank held on 29-8-1937.

"Though the Bank agrees to the principle of a certain number of new members being introduced to the Directorate every year, the Bank cannot accept the method of elimination of a certain number of old directors as suggested in the draft rule. This resolution might be forwarded to the Government with a letter embodying the reasons for the same and also pointing out the defects in the wording of the rule."

I. The recommendation of the Committee on Co-operation in Mysore is as follows:-

"As a safeguard against the same committee members continuing in office for long periods and at the same time in order to ensure the advantage of experience and continuity of policy, the bye-laws of Societies should provide for the compulsory retirement by rotation of certain proportion (between a third and a fourth) of committee members every year, and their replacement by new members. The method of selection for retirement will be determined by the bye-laws of each Society." The Government Order on the Committee's Report No. D.1113 C.s.11-36-144 dated 31-7-1937 is to the effect that bye-laws of Societies should provide for the compulsory retirement by rotation of certain proportion of committee members every year and their replacement by new members.

Neither

Neither the Government Order nor the Committee's recommendation has been to the effect that a disability should be placed preventing the oldest members on the Committee from seeking re-election. The present rule is, therefore, not in accordance with the principles or the spirit underlying the recommendation and Orders of the Government thereon. The present proposed draft rule 6 (3) works out a great hardship in insisting upon the oldest members not merely to retire, but also not to seek re-election till perhaps all the other committee members of the Society should have put in similar period of service on the Managing Committee. The draft rule as at present worded is not clear as to whether the discontinuance of a member for one year on the Managing Committee would enable ~~he~~ him to seek re-election for next year, if other candidates should have put in lesser number of service on the Managing Committee.

II Co-operative Institutions, being institutions functioning on democratic lines should conform to principles of democracy. The first and fundamental principle of a co-operative institution is that the members of a co-operative institution should have a free and unfettered choice to elect from among themselves persons to the Committee of Management in whom they have the utmost confidence. An inroad upon the rights of the shareholders of a Society who have got a right to choose those whom they consider best fitted and qualified to guard and promote their interests, can only be justified if the present system of unfettered choice has led to any abuses and requires restrictions. The recent Mysore Co-operative Enquiry Committee has pointed out in their Report that

that in certain Societies the same Committee has continued in office for long periods, thus preventing new members entering the Committees and gaining experience of the management, and the committee has suggested as a safeguard that each Society should frame bye-laws about the method of selection for retirement of old members and their replacement by new members. The draft rule now published by Government as draft rule 6 (3) is intended to give effect to this recommendation. In the first place the draft rule points out only one method and that by the retirement of three persons who have been members of the Committee previously for the longest periods. The Mysore Co-operative Enquiry Committee has not recommended this as the only method to be adopted as suggested in the draft rule. The Committee gives the choice to every Society to frame bye-laws providing for a definite proportion of old members being replaced by new members every year on the Committee of Management. This can be done by other methods than the one proposed by the draft rule. Moreover to say that a person who has served the longest period on the Committee should be debarred and not be eligible for re-election whatever his capacity and previous work in the Society might be, is surely unjust and unfair to a person who might have served the Society faithfully and conscientiously for a number of years, and who may be returned with the highest number of votes if he should be allowed to seek re-election. Long period of service should not as a matter of course be a disqualification for re-election provided he by his capacity and previous work can command the confidence of the general body of members.

III The proposed rule prevents experienced people serving on the Committee by seeking re-election. This would be to the detriment of the institutions concerned. The sanction of the Registrar which is recommended for the solution of the difficulty will not be of much avail as many persons and many institutions may not like to seek such permission as it happened in regard to the rule that till now prevailed with regard to Government servants standing for election to Managing Committees.

Such a question arose long ago in Mysore City in the City Co-operative Bank and after a good deal of discussion and deliberation, the Mysore City Co-operative Bank has adopted a bye-law which is as follows:-

Bye-law No.51. "The Management of the Bank shall vest in a Board consisting of not more than twenty directors fifteen of whom shall be elected by voting-by-ballot at an Annual General Meeting from among the members residing in Mysore City, who are not defaulters on the date of application or nomination and who have three days previous to the Annual General Meeting intimated to the Directors their willingness to stand for election or been nominated by at least two members. If out of the fifteen so elected there are not at least five members who were not on the Board in the previous year, as many of the old directors who get the least number of votes shall be replaced by an equal number of new directors in order of the number of votes obtained to make up the number of five. In the case of a tie selections shall be made by a lot by the tellors. The remaining five directors or a smaller number may be elected by the Board of Directors-themselves-from among the members possessing similar qualifications as may become necessary from time to time."

IV Every year when a number of candidates over and above the number required for the Managing Committee stand for election the necessary number is selected from among those who command the highest confidence of the general body of members which is signified by the number of votes secured by each successful member. It is but right and proper that the persons who should give room to new to new members should be those who command the least confidence of the general body of members and not arbitrarily fixing it as members who have served the longest period though they may command the entire confidence of the general body. The bye-law of the Co-operative Bank as quoted above not only enables members who command the utmost confidence of the general body to continue to serve the Bank but at the same time ensures a definite proportion of new members coming into the Committee every year thus giving opportunities to new members to get into Committees and show their capacity and worth by their work. After all a Society should be managed by persons in whom the general body has complete confidence. The equitable principle involved in this bye-law having been recognised by other large and influential co-operative institutions in this City has been adopted by those institutions also and this system has been working very smoothly giving satisfaction all round.

V It is not suggested that the above bye-law is the only method to be prescribed but it is suggested that the draft rule to be so amended as to give each individual society the choice of framing a bye-law either in accordance with the method prescribed in the draft rule or according to the bye-law of the City Co-operative Bank mentioned above or any other method which would ensure the principle of a certain proportion of new members replacing every year a certain proportion of old members on the Commiggee of Management.

This subject was considered at the Provincial Conference held in 1934 at Mysore and the opinion of the Conference was against debarring any person from standing for re-election simply because he has served the longest term on the Committee of Management.

So, it is recommended that draft rule 6 (3) be modified and enacted as follows:-

"The Management of every Society situated at District Head-quarters shall vest in a Committee consisting of not more than 15 and not less than 5 members who shall be elected in accordance with such rules as may be provided under the bye-laws of the Society, subject to the condition that such bye-laws should make a provision that the Committee of Management should include a certain definite proportion of new members every year who have not served in the previous year on the Committee of Management.

Memorandum on Draft Rule 6-(3) under the Mysore Co-operative Societies Regulation. -----

(Published in the Mysore Gazette dated 5-8-1937)

It is not clear whether the Rule is intended to apply also to Central Societies such as the Apex Bank, the Central Land Mortgage Bank and the Mysore Co-operative Institute. As the Rule stands at present it appears to apply to all classes of societies that are situated in the headquarters of each district. But as Central Societies stand on a somewhat different footing with regard to the constitution of the Managing Committee, it is suggested that the proposed Rule may be made applicable to primary societies only. The recommendation of the Co-operative Committee in this behalf also relates mainly to primary societies.

The bye-laws of the Apex Bank provide for the nomination of a member of the Committee by Government as well as for the co-option of a member of the Board of Directors. The Bye-laws of the Central Land Mortgage Bank also provide for the nomination of certain members by Government. According to the proposed Rule the mode of selection of the members of the Committee should be by elections and the power of nomination or co-option is taken away. The same difficulty will also arise in regard to the filling of casual vacancies.

The bye-laws of many Central and primary societies provide for the election of the President more or less independently of the members of the Committee. The proposed Rule is silent on this point and it is not clear whether the new Rule will not abrogate such a provision.

The proposed Rule limits the maximum number of members of the Committee to 15. But it is somewhat difficult to understand the object with which this limit has been fixed. It is no

It is no doubt necessary to fix a minimum so as to prevent a society falling into the hands of a small clique. A provision of this kind is also found in the Indian Companies Act. But it does not appear to be desirable to fix the maximum as well. This may be left to the discretion of the General Body of each society, so that it may determine from time to time the total number of members of the Committee according to its membership and the need for proper and ~~affection~~ effective representation of the shareholders on the Committee of management.

The Governing Body of the Mysore Co-operative Institute consist of 57 members, of whom 4 are representatives of the two Provincial Financing Banks, 40, representatives of affiliated societies and 12, representatives of individual members. The representatives of the Provincial Banks are chosen not by the General Body of members of the Institute but by the Managing Committees of those Banks. ~~The Mysore~~

The Mysore Co-operative Institute is a central society established mainly for Co-operative education and propaganda. The maximum ~~number~~ of members of ~~them~~ the Governing Body has been fixed at 57 with a view to secure proper and adequate representation to the affiliated societies in the districts and to individuals interested in the movement. It is therefore suggested that the proposed Rule may be suitably modified.

The draft Rule appears to have been made on the recommendation of the Co-operative Enquiry Committee that the bye-laws of societies should provide for the compulsory retirement by rotation of a certain proportion (between a third and a fourth) of Committee members every year and their replacement by new members. But the Committee does not seem to have anywhere suggested that their recommendation should be incorporated in the Rules under the Regulation. The Government appear to have gone a step further and proposed to embody the recommendation of the Committee in the Rules.

The proposed Rule embodies two principles~~d~~, namely (1)the retirement of directors in rotation and(2)the prohibition of directors who have been longest in office from standing for re-election.

The retirement of directors in rotation is a well recognised principle and there can hardly be any objection to the incorporation of such a principle in the Rules or the bye-laws. But as regards the second principle, it is doubtful whether it is desirable to enact such a rule of prohibition under the Regulation. In all Corporations, Co-operative or otherwise, the general rule is that a retiring director is eligible for re-election. In all Co-operative Societies the number of directors or Committee members is comparatively large, and very often it is found difficult to secure a sufficient number of competent men to serve on the Managing Committees. The Directors have to render generally gratuitous services. The extent of shareholding and the rate of dividend are severely limited by statute. Consequently there is hardly any strong inducement or advantage for any person to continue as a Director. Further, ~~it~~ in recent years, the elections in Co-operative Societies are keenly contested and the number of candidates standing for election is increasing. There is therefore little or no chance of the same Committee members continuing in office for long periods. And the proposed Rule of prohibition may very often result in preventing men of experience and influence who have stood by their society in fair weather as well as in foul weather, from serving on the Committee of Management and in allowing incompetent men to get into the Committee.

The proposed Rule does not specify the date on which it would be brought into force. If the date of its coming into operation is not specified, the Rule would automatically come into force on its publication in the Mysore Gazette, the and the societies would have to convene immediately general meetings of their shareholders and to amend their bye-laws suitably so as to bring them into conformity with the new Rule.

It is laid down in the draft Rule that three persons who have been members of the Committee previously for the largest periods shall not be eligible for re-election. It is not clear whether the idea underlying the Rule is that three members should retire every year in rotation and that the persons to retire are those who have been longest in office since their last election. It is also not clear whether such persons should be eligible for re-election at all future elections or only at the next election. The Rule is further silent on the mode of selection in case there are more than three persons who became directors on the same day.

The Rule is couched in such loose and vague language that it may sometimes lead to absurd results. In the case of a society which is one year old three Committee members who have been in office for only one year will have to retire and will not be eligible for re-election. The same result will follow in the case of a two year old society.

The following draft rules are therefore suggested for the consideration of Government:-

Management of societies.

1. The Management of every (primary) society situated within the municipal limits of the head-quarters of each district (as defined under the Mysore Land Revenue Code Regulation IV of 1888) shall vest in a Committee of not less than five members.
2. In default of and subject to any provisions in the the bye-laws of such society,—

i. the subscribers to the application for registration of the society shall be deemed to be the members of the Committee until the members of the first Committee shall have been appointed;

ii. the members of the Committee shall be appointed by the shareholders in general meeting; and

iii. any causal vacancy occurring among~~st~~ the members of the Committee may be filled up by the members thereof, but the person so appointed shall be subject to retirement at the same time as if he had become a Committee member on the day on which the Committee member in whose place he is appointed was last appointed a Committee member.

3. At the first Ordinary general meeting of the society all elected members of the Committee shall retire from office, and at the ordinary general meeting in every subsequent year three of the elected members of the Committee shall go out of office.

4. The members to go out of office shall be those who have been longest in office since their last election. If such number exceeds three, the Committee shall draw lots as to who shall go out of office.

5. Elected members going out of office shall be eligible for re-election. Provided that no elected member who has been a member of the Committee continuously for a period of three (or five) years preceding his retirement shall be eligible for re-election at the next election except with the written sanction of the Registrar.

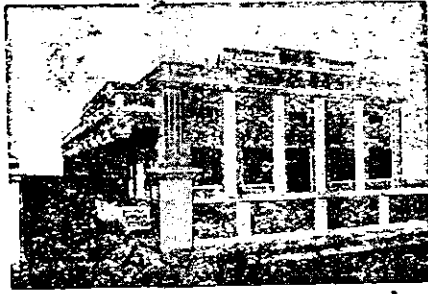

∟ N.B. If the Government approve the view suggested in the Memorandum the proviso to Rule(5) will have to be deleted/

Sir,

With reference to the draft rule regarding the appointment of members of the Committees of Management of Co-operative Societies at district head-quarters, I have the honour to submit, by direction, that the proposed draft rule 6(3) published in the Mysore Gazette, dated the 5th August 1937, will not be in the interests of large Urban Societies like ours, as it will deprive them of experienced, healthy advice and personal interest of long-standing members, in whom has developed a true love for the institution of which they are members.

The object of the Government appears to be to prevent unhealthy elements from continuing to do injury to institutions dominated by persons who care more for personal interest than that of the institution. This may be true with regard to the honorary office-bearers of some Societies such as the President, the Secretary, the Treasurer and any other member that may be entrusted with some responsible duty. To such office-bearers the proposed rule may be made applicable and not to the members of the Committee

Committee in general. It is in small Societies that the domination of certain individuals may generally be manifest and the proposed rule makes an exception in such cases. To make provision for a large number of fresh members to be elected to the Committee every year, a very healthy rule is in existence in our Society, which is as follows :--

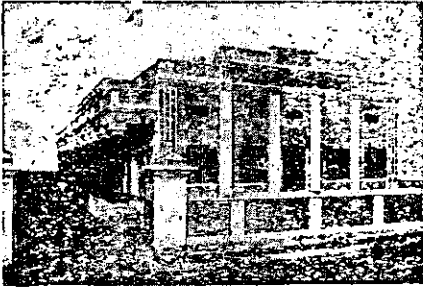

" At each general election of the members of the Committee at least five members who have not served on the Committee during the year immediately preceding the election shall be elected." (Bye-law No.36 (b))

It may be stated that the total number of members on the Committee in our Society is ten so that more than half this number may be fresh members. This rule will not, however, prevent such members as command the full confidence of the General Body from continuing as members of the Committee.

We beg to suggest, therefore, that the proposed rule may be amended to read as under :--

" The management of every Society situated at District Head Quarters shall vest in a Committee consisting of not more than fifteen and not less than five members who shall be elected in accordance with such rules as may be provided under the Bye-laws of the Society, subject to the condition that at the elections so held, not less than half the total number of members who served on the Committee during the year immediately preceding the election shall be replaced by fresh members, and subject also to the condition that in those Societies where honorary office-bearers such as the President, the Secretary, the Treasurer, or others

Dear Sir,

Re: Draft Rule 6, Cl.3, regarding the appointment of members of the Committee of management of Co-operative Societies at Dist. Head Quarters.

On behalf of the Industrial and Commercial Co-operative Society, Ltd., New Market, Bangalore City, I am instructed by the Committee to bring to your notice the following objections and suggestions regarding the above proposed rule.

According to our present Bye-laws, the management of our Society is vested in a Committee consisting of 10 members, of whom at least four members of the old Committee are bound to go out of Office at the end of the year, as the bye-law provides that there must be at least four new members elected to the incoming Committee.
The Rule like your present one proposed by you, viz., ".....three members who have been members of the Committee previously for the longest period shall not be eligible for re-election, (apart from its being very vague as to whether all their prior association on the previous Committees has to be taken into account), will work a good deal of hardship to the Societies concerned. The main purpose of and efficiency of a Co-operative Society consists in the intimate knowledge of the members and there must be also some provision for a continuous policy being kept up in the management. There is already a rule in existence that "no person shall be elected or appointed as Hon. Secretary, of the Society, if he has acted as such for a continuous period of 3 years" and we have absolutely no objection to such a rule being made applicable to all Office-bearers in the Society. There can be no object in enforcing such a rule with regard to ordinary committee members, who may be elected by the General Body and whose accumulated experience and knowledge of the Society and its affairs are bound to be of considerable benefit to the Society rather than otherwise.

We have also found certain members commanding the confidence of the General-body and being elected by highest number of votes year after year and there has been no complaint either from the General-body or discovered in the course of the working of the Society that the so elected Committee members have ever abused the confidence reposed in them by the General-body.

In Bangalore, where I have some experience of the working of the Co-operative Institutions, having served on the Committees of some Co-operative Societies, I have found that the General-body members, who are usually educated, and can very well take care of themselves ~~and~~ very rarely return underserving members more than once to the Committee of management. I think the object of the framers of the rule could very well be met by the rule being made in this manner. "Subject to the condition that at the Election so held (a certain number which may even go up to half the number) of the Committee members at least shall be newly elected every year." This would ensure new blood being introduced into the Committees and at the same time involve no slur or handicap on those who happen to command the confidence of the General-body and who manage to get the largest number of votes at the General Meeting.

The Proviso, that has been made in the draft enabling the Registrar to permit the retiring Directors to stand for re-election, may not adequately meet the purpose, as in practice, we have found that it is really those who are not very anxious to stand for election and canvass for votes and <sup>who</sup> get into the Committees, that are usually the best and most desirable on the Committees, after they are <sup>are</sup> elected and they might not, therefore, apply for any such facilities from the Registrar. The Proviso <sup>may</sup> at least be so framed that "the Registrar may, in the case of any Society, enforce such a restriction as is found in the Draft rule."

Yours faithfully,

For The Industrial & Commercial Co-operative Society, Ltd.,

Regarding the draft Rule 6(3) regarding the appointment of ... members of the Committees of Management of Co-operative Societies

... at District Headquarters published on page 166 of Part IV of ... the Mysore Gazette of 5th August 1937, I would make the following ... suggestions:—

I. As the proposed rule introduces an innovation of a restrictive character, i.e., restricting the liberties of general bodies and of the members in the matter of elections to the Committees of Management, it appears to be advisable to restrict the operation of the rule in the first instance to the Societies in the Cities of Bangalore and Mysore, and, after watching how it works for some time, extend its operation to the Societies at other District Head Quarters.

part of it. The draft rule says "previously for the longest periods."

(1) How are the longest periods to be reckoned?

Suppose

Suppose there are two members one of whom has been a member of the Committee for over twenty years with one year's break two or three years ago, and the other of whom has been a member continuously for nearly a dozen years. Which of these is to be marked out for retirement? If the aggregate period of service is the deciding factor, then between the words "periods" and "shall", the words "in the aggregate" have to be inserted.

The minutes operative in case there are more than 3 members subject to the liability has also to be considered.
(2) - If the Committee Members once retire by reason of the operation of this rule, it has to be considered if the retiring members are to be permanently debarred from standing for election or if they are eligible to stand for election after a break of one year.

If a break is all that is considered essential, another sentence has to be added at the end of the 1st para viz., (or to have the following effect):- "The ineligibility of a retiring Committee Member to stand for re-election is restricted to the election at which he retires. A retiring Committee Member is re-eligible after the expiry of the term of the Committee at whose election he retires."

(3) In the second para, in the third line, between "all" and "the", insert "or some of." The reason is obvious. The Registrar may may consider it necessary to permit one or two only and not all the three to stand for re-election.

Dear Sir,

I am aware that a number of Co-operative Institutions in the City have sent their views opposing or modifying the proposed draft rule 6 (3), under the Co-operative Regulation. I do not, therefore, intend to cover the same ground but only confine myself to some points which, so far<sup>a?</sup> as I know, have not been put forward for the consideration of the Government.

While appreciating the idea of the Government that new members should by force of rule be introduced into the Managing Committees and thus the rank of experienced Co-operative non-official workers strengthened, I am of opinion that the elimination of the oldest members is not, in all cases, the best method to be adopted for this purpose. It may be that in some places a few undesirable people have managed to perpetuate themselves on some boards and have become "Immovables". That is not a sufficient ground I venture to think, for enacting a rule to apply for all kinds of Societies--Credit, Consumers Propaganda, Marketing or otherwise, simply because they happen to be located in the District Head Quarters. The Credit Societies of limited liability being very simple in the method of administration, may not suffer much even if inexperienced people handle it, as they are likely to learn its methods of working in a few months. But in the case of propagandists, <sup>amateurs</sup> marketing, or stores societies, it takes 4 years <sup>for amateurs</sup> to learn the method of business, and therefore a rule which prevents some persons from standing for re-election, simply because they happen to be oldest members of the retiring committee, distinctly tends to ~~the~~ harm ~~of~~ the Institution by impairing the efficiency of management. A rule of this kind which was in existence about six years ago in two important societies of this city prohibited persons who had served for the longest period from standing for re-election. As a consequence it was found that people of even two years standing were obliged to retire. This device was therefore, found to be improper and was replaced by another rule which is in force in many societies, such as the City Co-operative Bank, the Chamarajapuram Co-operative Stores, Sri Krishnarajendra Co-operative Society, the Mysore Co-operative Society, the Central Paddy Co-operative Society etc.,

Some times the predominant position which credit societies occupy in the movement absorbs the attention of proposers of changes and the point of view of non credit societies <sup>is</sup> relegated to the back ground.

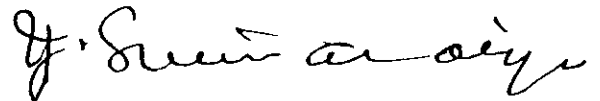

I am therefore, of the opinion that the point of view of the Co-operative Enquiry Committee which leaves the discretion to each society to enact a bye-law to suit its own local conditions is the best. But a rule under the <sup>Coop. Regulation</sup> ~~bye-law~~ on the point is quite necessary. So the proposed rule may take a form such as the following:--

"Each Society in a District Head Quarters shall have a bye-law by which not less than three and not more than five persons on the previous committee shall be inelligible to sit in the next committee, the mode of choosing the number to be eliminated being left to the discretion of the Society."

SIR,

In response to the Notification NO.D.1176-C.S. 11-36-146 dated 3/4th August 1937 in the Mysore Gazette inviting suggestions for addition to the Draft Rule regarding the appointment of Members to the Committee of Management of Co-operative Societies at District Head Quarters, I have the honour to state as follows:-

The long continuance of a Member on the Board of Management is by itself proof of the confidence he commands of the General Body and the usefulness of his services to the Institution. It may be desirable to get new Members into the Board so that the affairs of the Institution may have the benefit of the services of the ablest of its Shareholders. This may be achieved by making the retirement of 1/3rd or even half the number of the Members of the Board who have been longest in it but giving them the right to stand for Election along with others and giving the discretion of Election to the General Body of Shareholders. This is the practice obtaining in all the Joint Stock Companies.

The proviso it is feared will become an in-operative in practice and stands in the way of persons of status seeking such Election if required to approach the Registrar.

If an institution has to make an application to the Registrar for such permission to be accorded to the Retiring Member it will necessarily involve a long and unnecessary enquiry and keep out persons of status from such positions in Co-operative Societies of a purely honorary character and this fact has to be borne in mind in framing rules so that the most eligible persons may offer themselves voluntarily instead of making such Election a source of trouble and probably also of some indignity to them. At any rate such restrictions are both inexpedient and undesirable in the case of large Co-operative Institutions such as Central Bank, etc.

Hence, I beg to suggest that a certain proportion of the number of Directors may be made to retire at every election and their right to stand for re-Election may not be curtailed, but where the long continuance of a member affects the interests of an Institution, power may be given to the Registrar to interfere in such cases.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,.
